condé has pieced together the life of her maternal grandmother to create a moving and profound novel. Maryse Condé's personal journey of discovery and revelation becomes ours as we learn of Victoire, her white-skinned mestiza grandmother who worked as a cook for the Walbergs, a family of white Creoles in the French Antilles. Using her formidable skills as a storyteller, Condé describes her grandmother as having Australian whiteness for the color of her skin. She jarred with my world of women in Italian straw bonnets and men necktied in three-piece linen suits, all of them a very black shade of black. She appeared to me doubly strange. Victoire was spurred by Condé's desire to learn of her family history, resolving to begin her quest by researching the life of her grandmother while uncovering the circumstances of Victoire's unique life story. Condé also comes to grips with a haunting question: how could her own mother, a black militant, have been raised in the Walberg's home, a household of whites? Creating a work that takes you into a time and place populated with unforgettable characters that inspire and amaze, Condé's blending of memoir and imagination, detective work and storytelling artistry is a literary gem that you won't soon forget.

This book is an exploration of the life and art of Maryse Condé, who first won international acclaim for Segu, a novel about West African experience and the slave trade. Born in Guadeloupe in 1937, Condé lived in Guinea after it won its independence from France. Later she lived in Ghana and Senegal during turbulent, decisive moments in the histories of these countries. Her writings, novels, plays, essays, stories, and children's books have led her to an increasingly important role within Africa and throughout the world. Françoise Pfaff met Maryse Condé in 1981 when she first interviewed her; their friendship grew quickly. In 1991 the two women continued recording conversations about Condé's geographical sojourns and literary paths, her personality, and her thoughts. Their conversations reveal connections between Condé's vivid art and her eventful, passionate life; in her encounters with historical and literary figures and in her opinions on politics and culture, Condé appears as an engaging witness to her time. The conversations frequently sparkle with humor, at other moments they are infused with profound seriousness. Maryse Condé is the recipient of the French literary awards Le Grand Prix Littéraire de la Femme and Le Prix de l'Académie Française. She currently teaches at Columbia University, and her most recent works include Tree of Life and Crossing the Mangrove. Born and educated in Paris, Françoise Pfaff is a professor of French at Howard University, the translator of this book. She is also the author of Twenty-Five Black African Filmmakers: A Critical Study with Filmography and Bio-Bibliography and The Cinema of Ousmane Sembène: A Pioneer of African Cinema. Entretiens avec Maryse Condé was first published in France in 1993.

The Guadeloupean writer and critic Maryse Condé has for the last twenty-five years divided her time between her native Guadeloupe and the United States. If the author's work has attracted much critical attention in the United States, it is her fictional works that have been the focus of this attention. With these predominantly read in the light of political themes such as identity and resistance, in these intelligent and sensitive readings, Eva Sansavior argues in favour of adopting a broader thematic and generic approach to the authors work sansavior accounts for the multiple and oblique uses of literature in condes literary and critical work tracking its complex interactions with tradition reception politics and autobiography and also the singular possibilities that these interactions present for re imagining the ideas of politics literature identity and ultimately the nature of critical practice itself eva sansavior is career development fellow in french francophone caribbean studies at oriel college oxford cond@s story is rich and colorful and glorious it sprawls over continents and centuries to find its way into the reader s heart maya angelou a wondrous novel the new york times by the winner of the 2018 new academy prize the alternative nobel prize in literature and author of the gospel according to the new world the year is 1797 and the kingdom of segu is flourishing fed by the wealth of its noblemen and the power of its warriors the people of segu the bambara are guided by their griots and priests their lives are ruled by the elements but even their soothsayers can only hint at the changes to come for the battle of the soul of africa has begun from the east comes a new religion islam and from the west the slave trade segu follows the life of dousika traore the king s most trusted advisor and his four sons whose fates embody the forces tearing at the fabric of the nation there is tiekoro who renounces his people s religion and embraces islam siga who defends tradition but becomes a merchant naba who is kidnapped by slave traders and malobali who becomes a mercenary and halfhearted christian based on actual events segu transports the reader to a fascinating time in history capturing the earthy spirituality religious fervor and violent nature of a people and a growing nation trying to cope with jihads national rivalries racism amid the vagaries of commerce possessing one of the most vital voices in international letters maryse cond@ added to an already acclaimed career the new academy prize in literature in 2018 the twelfth novel by this celebrated author revolves around an enigmatic crime and the young man at its center dieudonn@ sabrina a gardener aged twenty two and black is accused of murdering his employer and lover loraine a wealthy white woman descended from plantation owners his only refuge is a sailboat la belle cr@ole a relic of times gone by cond@ follows dieudonn@s desperate wanderings through the city of port mahault the night of his acquittal the narrative unfolding through a series of multivoiced flashbacks set against a forbidding backdrop of social disintegration and tumultuous labor strikes in turn of the twenty first century guadeloupe twenty four hours later dieudonn@s fate becomes suggestively intertwined with that of the french island itself though the future of both remains uncertain in the end echoes of faulkner and lawrence and even shakespeare s othello resonate in this tale yet the drama s uniquely modern dynamics set it apart from any model in its exploration of love and hate politics and stereotype and the attempt to find connections with others across barriers through her vividly and intimately drawn characters cond@ paints a rich portrait of a contemporary society grappling with the heritage of slavery racism and colonization maryse condé is a guadeloupean writer and critic whose work has challenged the categories of race language gender and geography that inform contemporary literary and critical debates in signs of dissent the first full length study in english on condé dawn fulton situates this award winning author s work in the context of current theories of cultural identity in order to foreground condé s unique contributions to these discussions staging a dialogue between condé s novels and the field of postcolonial studies fulton argues that condé enacts a strategy of critical incorporations in her fiction imitating and transforming many of the prevailing narratives of postcolonial theory so as to explore their theoretical and conceptual limits by rejecting the facile classification of her work as caribbean african or feminist condé has gained a reputation as an iconoclast but fulton proposes that behind this public image of provocation lies an incisive reflection on the burdens of representation imposed on the non western writer and that condé s novels expose the ways in which postcolonial criticism can be complicit in constructing such burdens even as it questions them signs of dissent offers one of the most comprehensive assessments of condé s literary production to date illuminating its exceptional role in shaping a dialogue between francophone studies and the english dominated field of postcolonialism
